Linking Employee and Customer Behavior Through Ambassadorship

Driving A Successful Stakeholder-Centric Culture With Employee Commitment to the Company, the Value Proposition, and the Customer

Presented by

WE ARE PRACTICAL THOUGHT LEADERS
We take a scientific approach; we don’t just look at the rational experience but also what drives human behavior - emotions, subconscious, behavioral economics and psychology, and then mix this with a practical implementation. Thought leadership with real world results. Hence our name ‘Beyond Philosophy’

WE ACT AS YOUR GUIDE AND PARTNER
We’ll help you develop the strategy, guide the initiatives, and even train your CX team on our tools & methodologies. We do not wish to embed ourselves or be ‘camped out’ in your organization.

WE REDUCE RISK AND INCREASE PERFORMANCE
We have a variety of proven tools and techniques to apply to your unique situation. We build a program around what will get you the best results. Through our vast experience we know what works and what doesn’t.

OUR EXPERIENCE IN CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE IS VAST
We are the first operational CX consultancy and training company in the world. Since 2002, we have had the pleasure to serve many of the top organizations across the globe.

WE FOCUS ON WHAT WILL DRIVE VALUE ($) FOR YOU
We do not believe in ‘exceeding Customer expectations’ at every point of contact. We do believe in identifying and focusing on those aspects of your experience that will drive the most value for you. To help achieve this we have the world’s largest database of what drives Customer emotions.

SEASONED CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE TOOLS & METHODS
With our vast experience we know what works and what doesn’t. We have evolved our tool set in practical implementation and these are proven to work. We can use these on our engagement or we can train your people on how to do this or a mix of both.

The Role of People... Why They Can Be So Critically Important

68%...of customers LEAVE because of poor employee attitude

41%...of customers are LOYAL because of a good employee attitude

70%...of customer brand perception is determined by experiences with PEOPLE

~ The People
“Companies are only fooling themselves when they believe that ‘The Customer Comes First.’ People do not inherently put the customer first, and they certainly don’t do it because their employer expects it. We’re not saying choose your people over your customers. We’re saying focus on your people because of your customers. That way, everybody wins.” – Hal Rosenbluth and Diane Peters
Defining Rational and Emotional Bonds For Customers

RATIONAL
Based on Satisfaction
• Relationship based on meeting functional expectations
• Reinforced by ongoing performance quality
• Value for the money (price/value)

EMOTIONAL
Based on Trust
• Sense of personal relationship with brand or company
• Reinforced by service experiences
• Supported by customer touch points
• Embedded by memory
Defining Rational and Emotional Bonds For Employees

RATIONAL
Based on Satisfaction
• Salary and benefits (including training)
• Safety and environment
• Opportunities for advancement and growth

EMOTIONAL
Based on Trust and Commitment
• Sense of personal relationship with company
• Participation and contribution, belief in direction
• Alignment with culture and values
• Opportunities for advancement and growth
• Recognition and reward
• Accomplishment
Linkage of Stakeholder Groups

- Customers who actively (vocal, level of favorability, reduced consideration set, etc.) express their personal commitment to a supplier can be strongly positive (advocates), neutral, or negative (saboteurs). Level of commitment and advocacy based on their rational and emotional response to experiences and relationships.

- Employees, similarly, can significantly impact customer loyalty behavior toward their employer through a range of attitudes and behaviors on behalf of the brand, company and customer in terms of employer favorability level (including loyalty factors) and evidence/amount of informal communication about the employer. These attitudes and behaviors, like customers, can range from highly positive, to indifferent, to highly negative.

- Customer factors are proven to directly and indirectly impact employee behavior; employee factors directly impact customer behavior.
Implications for All Enterprises…

• How do we most effectively...
  – Get satisfied and engaged employees?
  – Build on engagement to reach ambassadorship?
  – Align our organization and processes around the customer and become more obsessively stakeholder centric?
  – Recruit, mentor, train, reward, recognize, promote, retain, align, communicate with, motivate employees?

Paraphrasing W. Edwards Deming:
Everyone in the company must understand their role in customer relationships, and this should be evident to the customer as well.

- What are the experiences we are trying to deliver?
- What delivery elements drive most value?
- How do we design deliberate, positive, and memorable customer and employee experiences?

Customer Experience

- What is our experience like today?
- What drives value?
- What experience are we going to deliver?
- What behavior should our customer & employees display?
- How can we predict how our customer feel & what they will do?
- How do we measure our customers’ experience?

Employee directly or indirectly interacting with Customer

- Train employee on behaviors
- Identify customer likely behavior - convert this into our desired emotions
- How should we measure our employee behavior?

Employee Experience

- What drives value for employees?
- Define employee experience
- Design employee experience
- Execute to improve employee experience
- Measure employee experience/customer focus
Definitions of Employee Research Concepts and Methods

- Employee Satisfaction and Loyalty – Identifies employee attitudes and behaviors leading to job satisfaction and employer loyalty.

- Employee Engagement and Alignment – Identifies employee attitudes and behaviors leading to agreement with, and belief in, overall company mission and objectives, as well as ‘fit’, or alignment, and productivity within organizational culture.

- Employee Ambassadorship – Identifies the most active level of employee commitment to the company’s product and service delivery promise, to the company itself, and to optimizing the customer experience. It is linked to, but also distinctive from, the core productivity and empowerment elements of employee satisfaction, engagement, and alignment research because its emphasis is building customer value and relationships through employee interaction.

Many Ways to Define Employee Engagement

Analysis conducted by The Conference Board in 2006 showed that, among twelve leading engagement research companies, there were 26 individual key drivers, of which eight were common to all:

- Trust and integrity – How well do managers communicate and 'walk the talk'?
- Nature of the job – Is it mentally stimulating day-to-day?
- Line of sight between employee performance and company performance – Do employees understand how their work contributes to the company's performance?
- Career growth opportunities – Are there opportunities for growth within the company?
- Pride about the company – How much self-esteem do the employees feel by being associated with their company?
- Coworkers/team members – How much influence do they exert on the employee’s level of engagement?
- Employee development – Is the company making an effort to develop the employee's skills?
- Relationship with one's manager – Does the employee value relationship(s) with manager(s), and is there trust and credibility between the levels?

Typically, little or no mention/inclusion of 'customer', 'customer value' or 'customer focus' in measures or analysis employee engagement. Though customer experience, and resultant behavior, is often impacted by engagement, it is more tangential than purposeful in nature.
Building Our Framework: The Two Key Components of Engagement

Commitment to Company - Commitment to, and being positive about, the company (through personal satisfaction and an expression of pride), and to being a contributing, and fully aligned, member of the culture.

Commitment to Value Proposition - Commitment to, and alignment with, the mission and goals of the company, as expressed through perceived excellence (benefits and solutions) provided by products and/or services.
Employees That Score High on Commitment to the Company and The Value Proposition Are Considered Engaged
The Three Components of Employee Ambassadorship

Commitment to Company - Commitment to, and being positive about, the company (through personal satisfaction and an expression of pride), and to being a contributing, and fully aligned, member of the culture.

Commitment to Value Proposition - Commitment to, and alignment with, the mission and goals of the company, as expressed through perceived excellence (benefits and solutions) provided by products and/or services.

Commitment to Customers - Commitment to understanding customer needs, and to performing in a manner which provides customers with optimal experiences and relationships, as well as delivering the highest level of product and/or service value.

- Human Touch
  - 0.5
  - Via SEM modelling, we would be able to find which stimuli touchpoints drive or destroy emotions and business value and quantify their effects.
  - In the example here, the “Human Touch” touchpoint has a positive effect of 0.5 on Trust, Valued and Cared for. Those 3 emotions drive have a bigger positive effect on “Rent Again” than on “Ease of doing business”.

- Product Acquisition
  - 0.3
  - No effects on emotions or value

- Divest
  - -0.2
  - No effects on emotions or value

After the “romancing” period of the first 11 months or so employees feel less positive and significantly more stressed and hurried.
Identifying Value of Employee Experience Elements (Through SEM Model)
Can Be Done By Attribute and/or Category

- Subconscious: Not desired but drives value
- Conscious: Desired and drives value
- Invisible: Not desired and does not drives value
- Deception: Desired and does not drives value

Overall Employee Attribute Ratings

The Positives

Among the top ten attribute scores by all respondents, six of them were in the categories of Customer Focus and Business Alignment:

Customer Focus
- I am dedicated to providing value to customers
- The organization cares about customer perceptions

Business Alignment
- I am motivated to help the organization be successful
- I have a clear understanding of the organization’s mission, goals, and objectives
- The organization understands that employees can have an effect on customer loyalty behavior
- I support the organization’s long-term business objectives
Overall Employee Attribute Ratings, contd.

The Challenges

Eight of the bottom ten attribute scores were in the categories of Advancement and Bonding.

Advancement
- My salary is on par with other companies
- There is opportunity for career advancement
- The department is responsive to changing employee needs
- Selection process for promotions is fair and consistent

Bonding
- My department uses employee feedback to make improvements
- I feel like I can be my true self at work
- I enjoy coming to work
- I have involvement in decisions that affect my work

The other two are “Improvement ideas are implemented” and “Other departments have the same customer focus as my department.”
Tenure-Related Issues

- Tenure appears to have a significant impact on degree of employee commitment. Aggregated Value Indicator mean score:
  - <1 years, score of 23.26 (used as base)
  - 1 to 5 years, score of 19.96 (14% lower)
  - 5 to 10 years, score of 17.33 (25% lower)
  - 10+ years - 18.45 (21% lower)

- Age also showed differentiation as employees became older (the youngest group being quite high in ambassadorship at 21.95, and all older groups somewhat lower), but not as dramatic as tenure.
Tenure-Related Issues, contd.

The Positives

Value Indicators
- Loyalty to company and personal commitment to company success were high, and remained high irrespective of tenure.
- Personal belief in goals and objectives and frequency of telling others how good company products and services are were also high; however, there was some decline with tenure.
- Personal belief that products and services exceed customer expectations were almost as strong, but showed more evidence of decline as tenure increased.

Attributes
- There was relatively strong perception that employees work contributes to company success, much of which was fairly stable over the time of tenure:
  - “My work contributes to company success”,
  - “I know how to use the tools available to do my job”,
  - “I am dedicated to providing value to customers”,
- All of the Leadership attributes, and many of the Customer Focus and Business Alignment attributes, were very positive among newer employees; but they declined over tenure, to the lowest level after 10+ years of employment.
- Interestingly, one Advancement attribute – “I plan on making my career at company” – declined after the first year, continued to decline after five years, and recovered among those employees with 10+ years.
Tenure-Related Issues, contd.

The Challenges

Value Indicators
- Both job satisfaction and likelihood to continue being employed at company were lower than other value indicators and also showed significant decline with increased tenure.

Attributes
- As a general statement, there was a tendency for mean attribute ratings to decline with increased employee tenure, in some cases quite significantly. This was especially true in Training, Advancement, Environment, Team, and Leadership attribute categories.

- Over range of tenure covered in the research, the most significant declines in mean ratings were “Selection process for promotions is fair and consistent”, Other departments have the same focus as my department”, and “I have involvement in decisions that affect my work.”
Relevant and Actionable Employee Ambassadorship Validation
Employee Loyalty*

*PLS factor of the following three metrics:

- Overall, how would you rate your organization as a place to work?
- If a friend or a family member were to consider applying for a job at your organization, how strongly would you recommend it as a place to work?
- I feel very loyal to my organization.

Nine Employee Ambassadorship
Best Practices

• Build a climate and culture of trust and authenticity
• Train, train, train (and cross-train in customer sensitivity and value proposition); embed customer experience requirements in all job descriptions
• Make certain everyone has a career path; build in CX elements
• Provide frequent evaluations/contribution reviews
• Seek to inform, seek to debrief, and be transparent
• Recognize and reward customer-focused initiative
• Don’t just ask employees what they want, provide it
• By all means, have fun; apply techniques such as gamification
• Hire the ‘right’ employees in the first place

Concluding Thought

“Every Honeywell employee is a brand ambassador. With each customer contact, and whenever we represent Honeywell, we have the opportunity to either strengthen the brand or cause it to lose some of its luster and prestige. Generations of Honeywell employees have built our powerful brands with their hard work, spirit of innovation, passion for quality, and commitment to customers. I am counting on every Honeywell employee to continue that legacy.”

Based on Ambassadorship-Centric Employee Emotional Signature Research, What Actions Should Companies Be Taking?

• Employees, at all levels and in all functions, need to have a thorough understanding of what is important to customers so that their actions match customer expectations and performance requirements.

• Employees’ behavior and experience needs to be aligned around positive customer experiences and customer loyalty.

• Management must build processes, technology, training, reward, recognition, and organizational/cultural practices that support employees being able to optimize customer experience.

• Companies should evaluate the effectiveness of linkage metrics associated with delivering customer value – financial and non-financial performance, addressing customer life cycle, amount of cross-functional collaboration to support customers.
